THE CRUSE THAT FAILETH NOT.

Is thy cruse of comfort failing,
Rise and share it with a friend,
And through all the years of famine,
It shall serve thee to the end.
Love divine will fill thy storehouse,
Or thy hand will still renew;
Scanty fare for one will often
Make a royal feast for two.

For the heart grows rich in giving—
All its wealth is living rain;
Seeds, which sow in the garner,
Scattered, fill with gold the plain.
Is thy burden hard and heavy?
Do thy steps drag wearily?
Help to lift thy brother's burden—
God will bear both it and thee.

Lost and weary on the mountains,
Wouldst thou sleep amidst the snow?
Ours that frozen form beside thee,
And together both shall glow.
Art thou wounded in life's battle?
Many stricken round thee moan,
Give to them thy precious ointment,
And that balm shall heal their own.

Is thy heart a well left empty?
None but God the valid can fill;
Nothing but a ceaseless fountain
Can its ceaseless longing fill.
Is thy heart a living power,
Self-entwined, its strength sinks low,
It can only live by loving,
And by serving, love will grow.
—Mrs. Elizabeth Randle Charles.

A PRAYER FOR BUSINESS MEN.

"We plead with Thee, O God, for our brothers who are pressed by the cares and beset by the temptations of business life. We acknowledge before Thee our common guilt for the hardness and deceitfulness of our commercial life, which leads so many into temptation and causes even the righteous to slip and fall. So long as it must be that man is set against man in a struggle for wealth, help them to make their contest in some measure a test of excellence, by which even the defeated may be spurred to better work. If any man is pitted against those who have forgotten fairness and honesty, help him to put his trust resolutely in the probity of his own conscience and, if need be, to accept loss rather than follow the others on crooked paths. Establish in unshakable fidelity all who hold in trust the wealth of others. The property and welfare of our nation are controlled by our business men. Help them to realize that they have high public functions and let them not betray the interest of all for their own enrichment. Grant them far-sighted patriotism to subordinate their work to the public weal and a steadfast determination to transform the disorder of the present into the nobler and freer harmony of the future. Let the spirit of Christ, which goes out from Thee and which is ceaselessly pleading within us, prevail to bring our business life under Christ's law of service, that all who guide the processes of factory and trade may feel that high consciousness of a divine calling which blessing only those who are the free servants of God and the people, and who are consciously devoting their strength to the common good."—American Magazine.

"POOR CARLOTTA"

The Memphis Commercial Appeal noting the impending death of Carlotta, the consort of Maximilian in his foolhardy attempt to establish empire on the North American continent, reviews the incidents of the romantic and tragic life of the "Mad Empress," in the following interesting sketch:

News comes from Europe that the end of the ex-Empress Carlotta of Mexico is near. Death will soon relieve her madness and will remove from the ranks of royalty a figure which properly belongs to the history of the past age.

Carlotta was a contemporary sovereign of Napoleon III., Plus IX, and King William of Prussia. Her brief and tragic reign was coincident with that of Abraham Lincoln's first term. The public has entirely forgotten her. Until the news was received that she was dying many thought her dead. To the great active world she has been so long removed from the ken of actual things that this belief is natural. But she is still alive. Until recently she has been in splendid physical health. Through the forty-five years of insanity she has been guarded in a retreat of her home or state.

It was during the strife between the states that Napoleon III., with his bayonets set up the Mexican empire. He realized that the time was propitious. With the close of the civil war came his political undying and the madness of Carlotta.

The war once over the Monroe Doctrine was enforced. The French plot in Mexico failed. Rebellion in the Mexican empire was quelled. The brief dream of power came to a close. The withdrawal of the French army which had placed Maximilian and Carlotta upon their throne was demanded. Arms were shipped across the Rio Grande to Juárez, who directed the movements of the revolution, army. Following the guns went 50,000 soldiers, most of them veterans of the Civil War. Gen. Sheridan was in command in Texas, and the retreat of the French began immediately.

Before the Empress Carlotta had nestled aboard a French liner from Vera Cruz to intercept with Napoleon. She expected to be received with imperial honors. She received none. Her famous interview with the Emperor Napoleon is a matter of history.

Broken in health, disappointed, lost, she fell fainting, after denouncing the emperor as an adventurer and parvenu. She never recovered, never knew of her husband's capture and execution, never knew that her empire was "one with Nineveh and Tyre."

Carlotta was young and beautiful then. She is old and world-worn now, and weary. She still believes in her empire. The curtain will fall upon her, the end will come, and she will meet it with her memories still fresh with the scenes of her yesterday.

HANDS ON, RANKIN A PACKAGE.

Mr. J. M. Richards, of Weatherford, who states that he is a regular reader of the Texas Christian Advocate as well as of the Home and State, in a communication in Sunday's Dallas News voices the sentiments of thousands of Democrats in Texas, hands Dr. Rankin the following package:

"I am with you in opposition to Colquhoun. I write, however, to express my dissent from and disapproval of your late reference to the political controversy between Bryan and Bailey, as calculated to offend those of us who regard Bryan as the ablest living American patriot and statesman, and who of all Democrats has the right to defend the National platform upon which he stood in the last campaign, and which no Democrat from Texas had a voice in making—except Senator Bailey and his chosen friends—a platform that Bailey attacked and repudiated not only in the Senate, but here in Texas.

Bryan made no attack upon Bailey, but Bailey was the aggressor. He repudiated the Democratic platform and voted with the Cannon-Aldrich gang of trust breakers, corruptors and traitors to the people. Bryan, the peerless leader of true Democracy and such old-fashioned honesty as Jefferson taught, when he demanded equal rights should be given to all and exclusive privileges granted none, had the right to come to Texas to defend this assault upon Democracy, though made by even so great a man as Senator Bailey, who by his recent votes and utterances has given more aid and comfort to the monopolists of the country than he has benefited and loyal service to pure and undistorted Democracy.

I am willing in this campaign to let the "Bailey issue" rest, but it can not rest if insinuations are to be made that Bailey ran Bryan out of the State, and that the Democracy of Texas has abandoned Bryan or repudiated his platform.

I and thousands of others have fought since the carpet bag days of reconstruction to maintain the principles of a tariff for revenue only, and in opposition to a protective tariff which benefits the favored few and is against the interest of the taxed toiling man, and we are still loyal thereto.

When we abandon this position I trust we shall have enough manhood and self-respect to openly abandon the great Democratic party and to boldly declare allegiance to the Republican party of political plunders. Until then we prefer to follow Bryanism—which is but another name for Democracy—even to defeat, rather than march to success led by such as proclaim themselves Democrats, yet advocate Republican policies.

This is no time for division among State-wide prohibitionists. The true patriot will lay aside personal animosities for the public good.

I do not condemn a man because of his past or present friendship for Mr. Bailey, and will vote for Judge Poindexter or Hon. C. O. Johnson, either, to defeat the saloon interests.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutionally restoring the system. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed it is swollen, and the fluid which it contains is thickened, and the result is that the tube is closed, and the air cannot pass. The inflammation can be taken out of the tube, and the fluid can be restored to its normal condition, and the hearing will be restored forever. This is the only way to cure deafness, and it is the only way to cure it. It is the only way to cure it. It is the only way to cure it.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

An attack of the grip is often followed by a persistent cough, which may prove a great annoyance. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been extensively used with good success for the relief and cure of this cough. Many cases have been cured after all other remedies had failed. Sold by McGaughey Bros and all druggists.

"Isle of Spice"

"That rare combination of delight, full music, witty dialogue, originality of theme, brilliant lyrics, a clever company, beautiful musical effects, and a scenic environment which has been described as a dream of scintillating iridescent color, are and to be some of the qualities responsible for the phenomenal success of that piquant musical mixture, the 'Isle of Spice,' which will be the attraction at the King, Saturday, Feb. 12th. Manager Whitely has always been noted for the thorough scenic environment of his spectacular productions, and in the 'Isle of Spice' he has, if possible, outdone all previous efforts.
